

Don't fall for the company's bait and switch.

Plain and simple, management wants complete control over administering benefits, so they are trying to bait workers with wages so it can switch administration of your benefits to the company, with no oversight.

The company is also trying to deceive and divide members, claiming the Union wants "to put the company out of business." Nothing could be further from the truth.

Under the Rite Aid company plan, the company has proposed to:

- Eliminate benefits for new employees working less than 30 hours per week
- Eliminate retiree benefits

They've already proposed eliminating some benefits; what else will change after they have administrative control? Rite Aid has also not increased its contributions to the medical plan in over 12 years. It's time for Rite Aid to take care of its workers.

Stand together and we will prove, once again, Solidarity Works!
